CONGRESSIONAL.

Senate.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13, 1881.

After the morning hour Pendleton spoke on his civil service bill. He said of Guiteau's motive in killing the president, the fact is patent that he wanted an office, didn't get it, and he believed the president responsible for his failure. He wanted a new distribution of offices, and believed a new president would make a new deal and give him another chance. He believed the president could and ought to divide the spoils. He had learned the brutality of our politics which traduces character and vilifies motives whenever difference of opinion exists, and made his crime possible. He asserts that he thought he was doing his party and the country a service. There are festering beds in which are born such madmen and such schemes of wicked deviltry are hatched. The act of Guiteau is exceptional. The causes for it are imbedded in our system and are ever present. He depicted in strong terms the dangers of expectation and love of office; its corruption and degradation of public sentiment, and declared we must eradicate this system. We must transact our business through business men on business principles. He invited a discussion and criticism of his bill and closed with an appeal to republican senators who have the power and emoluments of the administration, and to democrats, who would sooner or later have the offices, to declare that merit alone should win place. His peroration was eloquent and effective.

Dawes replied to Pendleton's criticism and said because he had not adopted Pendleton's schemes the latter thought he desired no reforms. He wished to make some practical advance and not adopt empirical schemes.

Hill, of Georgia, said that while everybody preached reform nobody was practicing it. While the country was weeping over the tragic end of the late president a federal judge was soiling his ermine by inditing a letter to his successor, the present one, who by reason of the corrupt civil service complained of had succeeded to the office, appealing to him to make appointments "for the purpose," in the choice language of that judge, "of cementing our coalition in Virginia to control the state election." What was that coalition? It was to secure republican officers of state. The senator from Ohio had said that much, but had not told the country that the president to whom that letter was addressed, while yet the mourning sobs of the people were echoing in his ears, sat down and made the very appointment which that judge had designated as cementing the coalition, and then perhaps with the same pen written a homily on civil service reform, to be introduced into his message to congress. This was the way we were practicing civil service reform. Was the president not to be blamed for this? Has not the senator the right to suppose every man in the country who talked about civil service reform was merely playing with the people? Were there not a score of men now present in the senate who had read from the very desk of the clerk, communications from the former secretary of the treasury and from a former president of the United States, insisting upon the removal from the New York custom house of a man who is now president, upon the ground that he had made the headquarters of political party, and that his removal was necessary to secure honest administration in that office. That very man who was removed from the New York custom house on the ground that an honest administration of his office required his removal, was the man who was nominated for the next highest office in the gift of the people, and the man by whom those communications were sent to the senate took the stump for his election. This was civil service reform as practiced by leaders of the republican party. Did not everybody know every man—high, low, black and white—who was charged with connection with the returning board frauds of 1876 received office from the administration which obtained the presidency by virtue of those frauds? Had not members now before him heard witnesses testify under oath in relation to that matter that they had committed perjury for the sake of obtaining office.

Hill's joint resolution on the subject was read at his request and referred to the judiciary committee. It provides an amendment to the constitution that all postmasters, revenue collectors, judges, marshals and U. S. district attorneys for district courts of the United States, shall be elected by the people of the state in which their duties are to be performed and in such manner as the legislation of their states shall provide.

Pendleton's bill was then informally laid on the table and Beck's presidential succession bill was taken up in order of precedence for to-morrow.

Beck yielded the floor.

Maxey, Vest, Groome and Ferry presented petitions for prohibition of unjust discriminations in railroad charges.

Hoar from committee on rules reported back a resolution for select committees to be appointed by the chair, or the extension of suffrage to women, or removal of legal disabilities. He asked unanimous consent for present consideration of the resolution.

Vest objected.

Ransom moved to appoint a select committee of five on the condition of the Potomac river front in Washington, its navigability, healthfulness, etc; adopted.

Ransom, Jones of Nev. Kellogg, Conger and Vest constitute the committee.

In the senate the following bills were introduced:

By Slater for the allotment of lands in severalty to Indians residing upon the Umatilla reservation in Oregon and granting patents therefor and for other purposes; referred to the committee on Indian affairs.

By Ingalls, for the allotment of lands in severalty to the United Peorias and Miamis of Indian territory and for other purposes; referred to committee on Indian affairs.

By Fair, for an ascertainment and report by the secretary of war of the amount of money expended and assumed by Nevada in suppressing Indian hostilities, repelling invasions, etc; referred to committee on Indian affairs.

By Windom, authorizing the construction of the north branch of the Union Pacific railway and telegraph line. It empowers the Missouri and Niobrara Valley Railroad Company to construct and operate said north branch from Sioux City, Iowa, westward, so as to connect with the Union Pacific west of Cheyenne, under the conditions of the original Union Pacific act of 1864; except the company is to receive no subsidy in bonds.

Logan, from the committee on military affairs, reported, with amendments, the bill to place General Grant on the army retired list.

Maxey, of the committee, said the report was not unanimous, and he would indicate his objection at a proper time. Adjourned.

House.

Bills were introduced as follows:

By Morgan, reducing the tariff on imported goods 10 per cent.

By Springer, for appraisement of telegraph line and effects to secure information about postal service in other countries.

By Shelly, to equalize homesteads gradually and reduce the price of public lands to settlers.

By Page, to restrict Chinese immigration.

Taylor's resolution was unanimously adopted for a select committee of eleven to audit claims for services during the president's illness and burial, and to consider the question of a pension for his family.

Robeson moved to appoint select committees on census, civil service reform, law respecting election of president and vice president, epidemic diseases, inter-oceanic ship canal, payment of pensions, bounty and back pay.

Knott objected; that most of the committees were unnecessary.

The resolution for a census committee was adopted.

Bills were introduced for settlement of Nicaraguan claims, to repeal tax on matches, bank checks, snuff, cigars, and spirits distilled from fruits.

By Townsend, in relation to the admission of territories as states in the union. It prohibits their admission till their population is equal to that required in a congressional district.

By Anderson, reducing rates of postage on letter matter to two cents, also amending the timber culture act.

By Haskell, for allotment of certain lands in severalty.

Randall's Silver Bill.

Randall, on Friday next, will introduce a bill to redeem and refund portions of the funded debt of the United States. In section 1, the secretary of the treasury is directed to retain in lawful money and bullion a reserve equal in amount to 30 per cent. of the aggregate amount of liabilities due and unpaid with the exception of gold certificates, silver certificates and certificates of deposits. This will not interfere with the section of the revised statute governing this matter. In addition, the secretary of the treasury shall retain in the treasury, in lawful money and bullion, a reserve equal in amount to 30 per cent. of the aggregate amount of United States notes in circulation. The fractional silver coin and minor coin in the treasury shall not be counted in the reserve as lawful money in the treasury. All surplus money and gold bullion, when coined in excess of the amount of reserve herein required shall be applied to redemption of continued 6s, the particular bonds to be redeemed as designated by the treasury department, and the bonds so designated shall cease to bear interest after the expiration of sixty days from publication of the notice. Whenever the whole of said bonds shall be called in for redemption, any surplus thereafter existing or accruing in the treasury shall be applied to the redemption of continued 5s on 90 days' notice, or any such surplus may, in the discretion of the secretary of the treasury, be applied to the purchase of any interest-bearing bonds of the United States.

Section 2 directs the secretary of the treasury to issue registered bonds of the United States in denominations of $50 and multiples thereof, redeemable at pleasure of the United States after five years, and payable in twenty years from date, their issue bearing interest at three per cent. quarterly or semi-annually in direct and even exchange; dollar for dollar, for the continued 5s, known as 3½s; four months' time being given on these points.

A GRACEFUL TRIBUTE.

Mrs. Garfield Elected First Honorary Member of the London Shakespeare Society.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—The Star to-night prints the following interesting item relative to the esteem in which the late President Garfield and his family are held in England:

President Garfield had been for some time, as many of his friends knew, an active member of the new Shakespeare Society of London, of which Mr. F. J. Furnivall, the eminent Shakespearologist and commentator, is president. We now learn that at a meeting of that body, recently held, appropriate memorial resolutions were passed, and "as a slight tribute of admiration for the loving devotion shown by Mrs. Garfield during the long and painful illness of the late president," she was unanimously elected the first honorary member of the society.

The society also voted to send a complete set of its publications to Hiram college, in memory of the late president's connection with that institution, and appointed H. R. H. Prince Leopold, duke of Albany, one of its vice-presidents, to see that the resolutions, etc., were properly communicated.

THE GUITEAU TRIAL.

An Expert Says Guiteau Shows the Symptoms of Insanity,

BY THE SHAPE OF HIS HEAD AND A ONE-SIDED TONGUE.

At which the Prisoner is Greatly Elated and Thinks him one of the Greatest Scientists of the Age—Rebuttal Evidence of Prosecution Continued.

SPECIAL DISPATCHES TO THE OREGONIAN.]

[Monday's Afternoon Session.]

As soon as the court called order, Guiteau, with flashing eyes and nervous utterance shouted out "There are a good many poodle dogs in the press and I want to express my contempt for these poodle dogs of the high toned press of the country who are beginning to express their opinion. It would be a crime to hang a man who was in my condition on the 2d of July when I was impelled upon the president."

Someone in the audience cried out, "Shoot him now."

Cries of "order" from the bailiffs reduced the audience to quiet and Dr. Spitzgar again took the stand.

Witness concluded from the shape of his face and head and defective condition of facial muscles, and from the pronounced deviation of the tongue to the left, that the prisoner was born with unequal development of brain and that his insanity was congenital. Witness described with great particularity the peculiarities of head formation which he held to be distorted in the prisoner's case. He thought in the prisoner's case the inequality in two sides of the head was three times greater than in a normal head. This inequality could be taken as an indication of moral imbecility only in proportion to its degree. Witness continued, "If I had only that man's (pointing to Guiteau) mean face to judge by I should say he was a depraved man or an insane man; but introducing other factors in the formation of the inequality of his facial expression and deviation of his tongue, I am of opinion that his trouble is of congenital origin."

The closest attention was paid by Guiteau to the evidence of this witness and his satisfaction was plainly indicated by the expression of his countenance.

Witness, becoming weary, was allowed to sit down, but District Attorney Corkhill insisted upon his standing up, as he could not see or hear him. Witness stood up, saying that it was a trival matter whether Corkhill could see or hear him.

Guiteau was immensely amused at this retort and with a chuckle said, "he's a bad man for you, Corkhill, we've got some more of them."

Witness upon talking with prisoner found that he based his conclusions upon insane and improbable assumptions, but granting his assumptions to be true his conclusions were logical.

Cross-examination was continued with the evident purpose of discrediting testimony, but the witness was more than a match for his questioners.

Col. Corkhill sharply questioned witness in regard to an article he contributed to a medical journal.

A spicy colloquy followed which Guiteau interrupted by shouting,

"It seems to cause you considerable trouble; you had better cool off, Corkhill; I haven't seen you beat so before; its 3 o'clock, we had better go home."

Witness was asked if he had not appeared as an expert in the Corkin case, and after taking a fee on one side returned it and taken a larger one from the other side.

Witness replied with considerable warmth—You have no basis for such a question and no man dares to make an assertion upon which he could found it.

Guiteau again interrupted in great rage and in a voice which completely drowned the utterances of counsel and witness, yelling out, "That's a very dirty question for you to ask, Corkill. It just suits your brain. I'm going to ask Arthur to kick you out of this case. Why this man is one of the first scientists of the country. Why he wouldn't condescend to spit on you, Corkhill. You are in bad repute, Corkhill, with every member of this bar. You are an unmitigated nuisance in this case."

Court then adjourned without concluding the examination of witness.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Dr. Spitzgar resumed his testimony in the Guiteau case. Corkhill handed witness a slip of paper on which was drawn a diagram of a head and said: "Now, doctor, supposing this to be prisoner's head, will you please point out the inequalities to which you referred yesterday?"

Before any reply could be made, Guiteau raised a laugh by saying: "That accounts for it. A lawyer came to see me this morning and offered me a new hat if I would let him take my head. I got the hat, but you don't pay for it."

Corkhill—Oh, no; the government will have to do so.

Witness gave his reasons for considering the prisoner insane.

Upon a question being asked by Corkhill, Guiteau broke in with, "I've been looking up your record, Corkhill, and I'll show you up."

Subsequently Guiteau again interrupted the examination and shouted, "I see that crank, Talmage, has been doing some sensationism business in this case. He had better go slow. He has been before his synod several times for lying. His reputation in New York is for running for houses of prostitution. I have got my eye on several cranks, and if they don't go slow I'll give some more of them some free advice. The high-toned portion of the American people are beginning to take the right view of the case."

Scoville inquired in relation to Shaw, a witness for prosecution, by asking witness to state to the jury what he (Scoville) had told witness he had learned in relation to Shaw.

Objection was made and sustained, when Guiteau shouted, "We have found out that Shaw was guilty of perjury in New Jersey, and was told by the judge from the bench that he ought to be convicted and sent to prison. We also know that English was convicted of a low crime in Ireland. The jury ought to know what kind of witnesses you are bringing here to ruin my reputation."

Witness thought the proper way to summon experts would be for the court to summon them irrespective of chances of what their testimony might be.

Corkhill insisted that witness had attacked the character and honesty of experts who were supposed to entertain opposite opinions from himself on the prisoner's sanity.

Guiteau interrupted in his most angry mood, and shaking his head at Corkhill shouted, "It's the unanimous judgment of the American people you are a consummate jackass, Corkhill. This gentleman is honest, and if your skull wasn't so thick you would see it."

Witness desired to explain his position and said, "I do not hesitate to reiterate my opinion that an expert who will in this court testify that prisoner is sane, is in my mind no expert, or a dishonest one."

Dr. Fordyce Barker, the distinguished physician, testified defining insanity in its several phases. His comprehensive and positive conclusions all accorded with the theory of the prosecution.

Judge Cox asked what witness meant by irresistible impulse.

The answer was, "reversions of emotion to such a degree as to produce conduct entirely at variance with the individual's former life, and to such a degree as to completely control the will power, would constitute irresistible impulse."

Guiteau asked, where a man is impelled to commit crime by impulse and he can't resist, is he sane or insane?

When that fact can be proved, sir, it is insanity.

"That's just my case, sir," said Guiteau, with an air of perfect satisfaction.

To Scoville, "come, that's the whole case, it's have a recess, I'm getting hungry."

Mrs. Scoville asked, "can a man be born insane?"

Guiteau—"You keep still. It's all they can do to put up with me."

The answer was, "no madame, he could be born an idiot or an imbecile. Insanity is an acquired state after birth. Recess.

After recess, L. S. Gobel of New York, took the witness stand.

Guiteau—If your honor pleases, I would like to know what they expect to prove by this witness. I think we have had enough of this kind of testimony. I only knew this man slightly.

Judge Cox—It is not necessary to state in advance. Go on Mr. Witness.

Witness was in the life insurance business and prisoner desired to solicit for him. Witness paid him $25, but never realized any business for his effort. Prisoner told witness he was about to marry a wealthy lady and was to have the Austrian mission and wanted to borrow $200. Witness did not think this gave evidence of unsound mind.

W. P. Copeland, journalist, was called and identified some newspaper slips.

Guiteau—You're no lawyer, Copeland.

H. I. Ketchum of New York, attorney-at-law, knew the prisoner in 1873, when he occupied a desk in the office of Judge Howe. Witness related an instance of Guiteau's obtaining money under false pretences. Scoville objected to all testimony going to show the commission of any other crime or misdemeanor of the prisoner.

Guiteau (indignantly). "I never got a cent from this man in my life. He was only a poor clerk. I did not consider him a fit associate for a high toned lawyer like myself." The prisoner continually interrupted the witness and insisted that the evidence was entirely irrelevant, and finally turning to Scoville, he said, "You are getting badly cracked on this matter. If you had any sense you would see it does not do our case any good. You will be on trial as a crank yourself if you don't look out. Why you are getting worse than Corkhill."

Henry Wood, of Philadelphia, had known the prisoner some years and never saw anything to indicate he was of unsound mind. Witness always thought he was possessed of rare intelligence. Witness knew Guiteau's wife from neighborship. His family have rendered her service. Guiteau called upon him to thank the family for their kindness.

Guiteau here took occasion to slander his wife in the most outrageous terms. "This man," he said, "knew her before I did. You can draw your own inference."

Sam B. Phelps, broker of New York, knew the prisoner since 1868; first knew him in Chicago.

Guiteau became a little angry at the statement made by witness, and rattled a perfect tirade of abuse, several minutes elapsing before examination could proceed.

Witness said he had known the prisoner, and never saw anything to indicate that he was of unsound mind.

The cross-examination was continued till the hour of adjournment, and was frequently interrupted by Guiteau with contradictions and denials. When witness said Guiteau had desired to have him as editor-in-chief of one of his newspaper projects, Guiteau laughed immoderately for some minutes, and shouted, "Oh, Phelps! that's certainly a slight absurdity; you for editor!" Adjourned.

Guiteau's Fears.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—The Tribune's Washington special says: A striking scene occurred in yesterday's proceedings. "Shoot him down! Damn him!" were the words which came from a clear ringing voice in the corner at the right of Judge Cox. The assassin's foul mouth was instantly closed, and the quivering wretch turned deathly pale. He cringed in his seat and was dumb with fear. He looked as if he thought his hour had come, and he no longer blasphemed or called upon the deity. There was, of course, an excited movement in the court room, and Judge Cox sharply called out from the bench, "Who is that?" The officers could discern no offender, and the incident passed, but the coward wretch, who had just been defying the court and abusing counsel, was stilled. The outcry probably came from a spectator who could not restrain his indignation at the blackguard mouthings of the assassin, who had no purpose to assault the murderer in that place, at least, where the innocent might suffer; but there is a strong feeling, which has very strongly impressed Mr. Scoville at least, that some time a pistol may be fired first and outcry be made afterwards. "I am afraid," said George Scoville last night, "that somebody will put a bullet into Guiteau's head before this trial is over." Those who sat in the dim light of the dingy court room this afternoon had some reason to think Scoville's fears would be realized.

Emory Storrs on Guiteau.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—Emory Storrs says: "I think Guiteau will be convicted. Crazy is not the right kind of a word. Nothing has so far appeared in the case to indicate that he didn't at the time of the assassination of the president, and before it, and during all the time since then, fully comprehend the difference between right and wrong, fully understand the nature of the act committed and its consequences, and consequently nothing tending to show he had not control over his conduct and nothing tending to show he was acting under an irresistible impulse proceeding from a diseased brain or from any other cause. The public are very well convinced he has a badly balanced mind and that he has not good strong common sense, and that he has an inordinate desire for notoriety, and would stop at nothing to achieve it, but I have yet seen nothing in the case to indicate that in a legal sense he was or is insane. He has had a perfectly clear comprehension of the case from the commencement of the trial of the points involved. His bursts of violence and his abuse of witnesses and others have been indulged in because he thought himself safe in so conducting himself. Had he apprehended punishment of any kind for these outbursts, I have not the slightest doubt he would have been entirely quiet. Judge Cox is a man of very excellent standing in Washington, and doubtless has been proceeding upon the assumption that he would give the prisoner the largest latitude possible so there could be no error in record nor in proceedings, but I have no doubt it was in his power, as it is in the power of every court, to maintain common decency and order in proceedings, and that some method could be found for punishing Guiteau for contempt, either in his position as counsel or prisoner, which would have been effectual. These demonstrations have hurt Guiteau's case. Regarding Mrs. Scoville's assertion in court that he had perjured himself, Storrs made a brief but explicit statement. He never even told Mrs. Scoville that he should testify that Guiteau was insane, much less had he ever made or even promised to make an affidavit to that effect.

A Startling Theory.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—It is not impossible that Guiteau may be revealed as a forger. The letter which he wrote to the district attorney asking for bail, struck Corkhill as resembling closely the famous Morey letter, and several experts have so pronounced. The first three letters in Guiteau's name in the letter to the district attorney and the first three letters in Garfield's signature in the Morey letter are absolutely identical. The letter is now in the possession of the chief clerk of the state department. No one who has yet seen the original Morey letter and the Guiteau letter, but has pronounced them written by the same person. At the time the Morey letter was written, Guiteau had been driven from the republican headquarters in New York and was still hanging around in that city.

WHAT GUITEAU WILL DO.

If Convicted, he will die Fearlessly—If Acquitted, he will Marry and Lecture.

A correspondent visited the assassin Guiteau in his cell a few days since. A large crowd gathered at the jail, but few of them were permitted to see the prisoner. During the morning about fifteen experts on insanity were there to examine him. In the conversation which followed Guiteau said the trial was progressing satisfactorily to him; that he was certain of acquittal by the jury; that when he got on the witness-stand he would soon convince them that he removed the president under inspiration. Even the lawyers, he said, were friendly to him, and he mentioned Colonel Corkhill and Mr. Davidge by name as having no desire to convict him. He was asked what he should do supposing the jury said he must hang. "I would go upon the scaffold without fear," said he. "If the lord wills it I will obey his commands without complaint. I will cheerfully go. It may not be in this generation, but the odium attached to my name will be removed. I will be regarded as a patriot and the savior of the nation from civil war. My name will go down in history with Lincoln's and Grant's." He was asked what he would do if acquitted. "I will go into the lecture field as soon as I am out. I would make $30,000 the first year. I would pay all my debts and board bills and start life again. I would go out to Indiana and marry that hundred-thousand-dollar girl who recently advertised for a husband.

Very Much to the Point.

The statement that Judge Cox, of the criminal circuit, cannot stop the horrible farce that is going on under his nose, is an accusation of imbecility. If Cox cannot preserve order, decency, and dignity in his court, he should be taken out, tarred and feathered and ridden on a rail. He is a pretty judge, to be sitting in authority and allowing the snarling miscreant, with two breakfasts in him, who murdered President Garfield, to blab his blackguardism to the world.

His sister Bianca, who was stabbed several times, it is said cannot recover but his mother may. During the melee Juan is said to have stabbed his brother Tomasso twice in the breast. The latter has not been seen since last night and it is thought he has wandered off and died from the effects of injuries. The Wrecked Bark.

PORT TOWNSEND, Dec. 13.—The cutter Walcott arrived from the wreck last night and brings a report as follows: The Chilian bark Twenty-first of May of Valparaiso, formerly the American bark Camilla of Boston, built in 1868, and now owned by N. E. Wilshaw of Valparaiso, and commanded by Capt. Theodore Lunt, bound from Valparaiso to Port Townsend for orders, with 300 tons of sand ballast, entered the Straits of Fuca, Dec. 8. Had light southerly winds until the night of the 9th, then a heavy wind from south and east. At 4:30 A. M. of the 10th, when north of Race rocks, the wind was too strong to make headway and she let go the anchors. They dragged and the ship struck on a rock and soon made water at the rate of two feet an hour. They remained by the ship all day and landed at 7 P. M. The vessel is ashore one mile from Race rocks, between Bedar bay and Bentick island, and when the cutter left was hanging on a rock full of water. The crew were engaged in stripping the ship. VILLARD INTERVIEWED.

He Says the Northern Pacific will Commence the Branch to Puget Sound Next Year if Possible.

[SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.]

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—To-day's Philadelphia Press had an interview with Villard. He says, "I have traveled considerably in Oregon and Washington Territory during the past two months and I saw on all sides evidences of rapid development of a grand country but the best evidence of the growth of the northwest is in the increase in our passenger and freight business. The wheat crop of Washington and Oregon will be about twice as much this year as last. We are confident of running through trains by the 1st of September, 1883. I may say that one of the great advantages of the Northern Pacific road over every other Pacific railway is that from the summit of the Rocky mountains to the Pacific ocean, a distance of 900 miles, the main line will follow a steady down river grade. In the same distance the Central Pacific has to go over three summits of from 5000 to 8000 feet high. So far as our road is concerned it is entirely independent of any railroad interest east of St. Paul and Duluth. It is not necessary nor would it be wise to form alliances with the Northern Pacific railroad and other roads. The business of our road as a through line will be very valuable and there will be plenty of competition for the business of the road."

Reporter asked, "Will the Northern Pacific use the Oregon Railway and Navigation company's line after striking the head waters of the Columbia river?"

"It will use for the present the O. R. & N. Co.'s line from the confluence of Snake and Columbia rivers and along the south of the latter for a distance of about 200 miles. The Northern Pacific propose building a line of its own on the northern bank of the Columbia, which it will, of course, use when it is completed."

"Will the road be built from Ainsworth to Tacoma?"

"Yes, the Cascade branch. The final reports of engineers upon the several surveys are not yet made, and can hardly be completed owing to the severe season before next spring. The company will, however, build the branch, and if a definite choice of routes can be made in season work will be commenced from Ainsworth during the ensuing year. The road will pass through Yakima valley, a rich wheat producing country."

EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY, 120 Broadway, New York.

LIFE INSURANCE PROFITS DEMONSTRATED BY ACTUAL SETTLEMENTS MADE IN 1880.

The Society is now paying maturing Tontine Policies with the following remarkable results:

POLICIES CARRIED TEN YEARS WITH THE RETURN OF ALL PREMIUMS PAID AND INTEREST THEREON.

1st Example: Policy No. 42,863, issued May 25, 1870. Amount......$10,000 00. Total premiums paid (11 years)......5,394 00. The assured is now entitled to draw, in cash, $6,466.80, having had besides $10,000 of assurance for eleven years. 115 per cent. of premiums paid, returnable in cash.

This example and those which follow show that LARGER PROFITS ARE PAID POLICY-HOLDERS THAN ARE NOW DECLARED BY ANY OTHER COMPANY.

2d Example: Policy No. 58,863, issued Dec. 30, 1870. Endowment 20 years. Tontine Period ten years. Amount......$10,000 00. Total premiums paid (10 years)......7,059 00. The assured on Dec. 30, 1880, will be entitled to draw in cash, $9,083 30, 129 per cent. of the premiums paid. These results, although predicted by carefully made estimates, are

NOT ESTIMATES, BUT ACTUAL CASH RETURNS.

3d Example: Policy No. 41,831, issued March 27, 1860. Amount......$5,000 00. Total premiums paid......2,935 65. In this case the assured withdrew, March 27, 1880, in cash, $3,312 45, being 114 per cent. of premiums paid. Many policies will be thus paid in 1881, showing

CASH RETURNS OF FROM 100 TO 120 PER CENT. OF THE PREMIUMS PAID.

Assets securely invested of $48,000,000. Surplus, nearly $10,000,000. The Society's popularity is shown by the fact that for the past eleven years the total amount of new policies issued has been greater than that of any other company in existence, thus making its average

ANNUAL NEW BUSINESS LARGER THAN THAT OF ANY OTHER COMPANY.

The Society pays death claims promptly and in full. Its policies are clear and concise, and with no unreasonable conditions.

EVERY POLICY BECOMES INCONTESTABLE AFTER THREE YEARS.

WEDNESDAY MORNING, DEC. 14, 1881.

THE OREGON AND CALIFORNIA RAILROAD.

To set at rest all questions in regard to cost of the Oregon and California railroad and amount of earnings thereon, as well as to furnish the public with a piece of information in which many will take an interest, THE OREGONIAN has solicited and obtained a full financial statement of the affairs of the company from the beginning of its operations to the present time. We have done this to verify and prove our own statements on this subject, which have been questioned in certain quarters. The figures as presented bear their own interpretation; hence no preliminary explanations are necessary. The first table shows receipts, in cash, from sale of bonds and earnings to April 1, 1873, when payment of interest on the bonds ceased:

Sale of $10,950,000 bonds, at 60 cents	$6,570,000 00
Net earnings from September, 1870, to April 1, 1873 (after that date interest on bonds in default	319,505 64
Subsidies	61,011 48
Floating debt	42,640 87
Total	$6,993,157 99

The amount of interest paid on bonds up to April 1, 1873, to be deducted from the above, was $1,604,088 93, which leaves $5,389,069 06. This sum was disbursed as follows:

Construction of road and right of way	$4,628,447 59
Rolling stock	497,137 14
Machinery and tools	29,256 56
Ferry boat No. 1, construction	41,693 21
Office and depot furniture	19,325 40
East Portland depot grounds, warehouse and dock	173,209 16
Total	$5,389,069 06

This is the sum in cash at which the "plant" of the company stood on the 1st April, 1873, the date of default of interest on the bonds. The actual cash outlay for right of way, construction, rolling stock, equipment, depot grounds, ferry, warehouses, etc., stands on this basis at about $27,000 for each mile of road. Labor, rails, rolling stock and all the expenses of construction were then greater than now. Yet it is only truth to say that construction under the management then existing was certainly not economical, and the road might have been built for something less, had sound business management stood at its head. But on this score those who furnished the money certainly are not to blame. Still less, because further removed, are their successors in the right of ownership and the duty of management.

Now for earnings. The road was opened for traffic as far as Salem in September, 1870. The following is a statement of earnings from that date to Dec. 1, 1881:

	Gross Earnings.	Gro Expen	Net Earn.
Sep '70 to Dec 31, '79	$4,991,201 95	$3,171,482 02	$1,819,718 94
Jan. '80 to Dec 1, '81	1,376,712 37	1,177,512 05	179,200 02
Total to 1st Dec, 1881	$6,368,914 22	$4,349,995 37	$1,998,918 96

Thus it appears that the net earnings of the road to Dec. 1, 1879, a period of nine years and three months, amounted to $1,819,718 94. Placing the "plant," as above shown, at $5,389,069 06, the average yearly earnings for the period give $202,191, or about 3¾ per cent. on the plant representing the cash outlay, and a little less than 1 1-5 per cent. on the bonded debt.

On the 1st January, 1880, the Oregon Central was acquired, at construction rates, by the Oregon and California. Since then the roads have been operated together. Their net earnings from January 1, 1880, to Dec. 1, 1881, have been $179,200 02, making their average yearly net earnings $93,006 60. Adding actual cost of the Oregon Central to that of the Oregon and California the above income would amount to a little more than one per cent. on the actual cash cost of the roads, and about three-fourths of one per cent. on the bonded debt. Cost of repairs is very heavy, as bridges, ties, rails and rolling stock must receive constant attention, and in this climate frequent renewal.

To this showing a statement as to proposed extension of the road, now resolved on and to be pushed immediately, may be added, for not only is the whole of Western and Southern Oregon interested in it, but as the road will be the connecting link of the Northern Pacific and Oregon system with San Francisco, its extension will make it more than a local road. The plan of reorganization of the company, by which means are being raised for extension of the road, requires the holders of the bonded debt to surrender their bonds and to accept preferred stock for the principal and common stock for the interest of their bonds, while the company is to issue first mortgage bonds not exceeding $30,000 per mile of its road. The bonds raised from this issue of bonds are to be applied first to repayment of advances made for construction of the Western Oregon and the Albany and Lebanon roads and the purchase of the Oregon Central, and the balance will be used for extensions of the lines. So that the holders of the old bonded indebtedness, representing the cost of the first two hundred miles of the Oregon and California railroad, will receive nothing upon their debt until the interest is paid upon the first mortgage bonds of the company at the rate of twenty thousand dollars per mile. The contingency of their getting an excessive income upon their investment would scarcely seem so imminent as to be really alarming.

The figures we have presented make good our statement that the road has never paid anything like a fair income on the money actually invested in it. We put aside here all criticisms upon the original mismanagement through which a large bonded debt was placed upon the road, interest paid on the bonds for a long period out of the principal, and in the end less than one-half the amount represented by the bonds left available for construction. For this the present management of the road is in nowise responsible. The capital fact which we have set forth, and which the country ought to know, if it would deal fairly with an important enterprise which has been of great service to it during many years, is that the road is not earning an income on inflated or fictitious stock, nor even an income on the money actually invested in its construction. The enterprise is entitled to a better return on the money than it has ever yet obtained, and to fair treatment from the country. Ignorance, prejudice and malignity are the moving causes of the spiteful and groundless attacks recently made upon it. Here are three hundred miles of road. At the lowest figure at which the lines could be built and equipped now say, $18,000 a mile, or even less, they could not be made to pay four per cent. per annum on the money; and if the Yaquina road shall be built, the money that goes into it cannot be made to yield one per cent. for ten years to come. The drawback arises from the fact that the volume of business afforded by Western Oregon is not sufficient to make railroading profitable. Experience has fully demonstrated this. For one hundred miles river transportation comes into competition with the railroads, materially reducing railroad traffic. Moreover Western Oregon is making very slow growth. Connection with San Francisco may make the Oregon and California railroad a good property, but local business, if the future may be judged by the past, would not make it a decently paying road for twenty years yet to come.

The Southern Pacific railroad managers have formulated a new scheme for carrying off the wheat of Oregon and Washington. They are building new steamships to run from the Columbia river and Puget Sound to Wilmington or San Diego, to carry wheat to be transported thence by the Southern Pacific to ports on the gulf. The expense of transfer from ship to car will be considerable, but steamers constructed for the purpose will probably be furnished with elevators and all appliances, so that the cost of handling will be reduced to the lowest possible charge. These steamers might become a great aid in shipping to market our surplus wheat crop.

Chaffee of Colorado, who is talked of for a place in Arthur's cabinet, has been a Grant man only since his daughter became a member of the general's family. Prior to the Chicago convention, Chaffee, who has abundant means, did all he could to forward Blaine's interest, and after the election was forward in urging Blaine's appointment in the Garfield cabinet. He was successful in Colorado and was particularly active in securing the admission of that state. But his appointment would hardly have the extraordinary effect of pleasing both Grant and Blaine.

The nations of Europe spend $595,000,000 a year in preparing for anticipated wars with each other. Wars and preparations for wars have piled upon the people of Europe national debts that aggregate $28,460,000,000. The interest upon this immense amount of debt is paid to syndicates of capitalists out of the product of the labor of working people, who are growing yearly more discontented. The amount of the original amount borrowed may have been paid back in interest many times, but still the burden rests on the necks of labor.

The murder of the president was a scheme which engaged the assassin's mind for several weeks before consummation of the act, and it has since been excused by him as a wise political stroke. He reasoned on the act and its consequences with perfect coolness; he knew there would be intense public excitement and that he would be in danger, and he took care to provide for his safety till, as he says, public indignation would cool. Such is the record in the face of which "emotional insanity" is set up as a defense!

The Atlanta (Ga.) Constitution thinks the question just now to be considered in the southern states is this: "Will the democrats throughout the south recognize and attempt to control the forces that made Mahoneism possible in Virginia, or will they go around blustering about "traitors" and "renegades?"

MORE CAPITAL.

PROPOSED INCREASE OF O. R. & N. CO'S STOCK TO $18,000,000.

Meeting for that Purpose to be Held in this City on the 20th inst.—The $6,000,000 Wanted for Branch Lines and Equipments.

On the 21st of last month the directors of the Oregon Railway and Navigation Company passed the following resolutions:

Resolved, That for the purpose of providing the sum of $6,000,000 for the completion of the company's system of roads and for additional equipment therefor a special meeting of the stockholders of this company be, and the same is hereby called, to be held at its offices in Portland, Oregon, Dec. 20th at noon, for the purposes and for the consideration of the matters contained in the following resolution to be submitted to the stockholders at said special meeting, viz:

Resolved, That the capital stock of the company be increased from 120,000 shares, of the par value of $100 each, to 180,000 shares of the par value of $100 each, by issuing 60,000 additional shares of the capital stock to subscribers therefor at par upon payment to the company of the par value thereof.

That said 60,000 additional shares be offered for subscription at par to the stockholders of the company of record December 28, 1881, and their assignees, in proportion to their respective holdings of stock on said last named day.

That subscription books therefor be opened at the offices of the company in New York and Portland December 29, 1881 and closed January 5, 1882.

That all rights of subscription, not availed of on said last named day, shall be disposed of as the board shall direct

That said subscriptions be payable at the offices of the company where made at the following dates and in the following amounts: January 10, 1882, 20 per cent.; February 1, 10 per cent.; April 1, 10 per cent.; May 1, 20 per cent., and 10 per cent. each June 1, July 1, August 1 and September 1.

That stock appertaining to the first two instalments will be delivered February 1; to the next three instalments, June 1; to the next three instalments, September 1, and that they will be entitled to all dividends subsequent to delivery.

The reasons why the directors favored an increase in the capital stock are set forth in the following circular, issued by Mr. Villard under date of Nov. 21:

First—The actual construction expenditures during the current year considerably exceed the preliminary estimates of cost. This was mainly due to the extremely heavy work along the Columbia river, on the line from The Dalles to Portland.

Second—Owing to the closer relations between this company and the Northern Pacific railroad company a modification of the contemplated system of branch lines in the country between the Northern Pacific main line and Snake river becomes desirable and necessary, which change involves the construction of nearly 100 miles of line in addition to the mileage included in the original construction plan.

Third—The very great increase of our general business, and especially of our freight traffic, compels immediate provision for large additions to our motive power and rolling stock.

I take much pleasure in stating that, although but half of the mileage of the new road, which will be completed out of the means provided from the last issue of $6,000,000 of full paid stock, is as yet in actual operation, our earnings show already a very large increase. There is every assurance that the growth of the traffic upon the full completion of the new lines already provided for will exceed the expectations of the management, and that the proposed new outlay of capital will produce equally satisfactory results.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

The following is an extract from an editorial article in the Albany Herald of the 8th inst., entitled:

"COMMERCIAL REDEMPTION."

"But the state can, if it will, encourage the Oregon Pacific railroad company by such substantial means and measures, at the same time, no doubt, receiving from the company bonded guarantees to operate an independent road, that it will be enabled to measure swords with its powerful antagonist, and afford permanent relief to the commercial necessities of the state. How, it may be asked, can the state aid this company? Every producer in the state, if possible, must favor it with his patronage. Men must be sent to the legislature of undoubted anti-monopoly sentiments, to frame laws for its protection and wider range of privileges; and as a dernier resort, the state being inhibited by law from creating an indebtedness exceeding $50,000, such law should be repealed, and the state proceed to offer substantial financial aid to this company; enter into an alliance with it under proper guarantees, to protect the commercial interests of the state from the spoliation of a power that will one day make the productive interests of the state bleed at every pore, unless checkmated by the sovereign power of law and public will."

This article has suggested to my mind the following questions:

First, Is this advocacy of state aid to a corporation that has already received more assistance from the state than any other corporation viz.: The donation of the right of way for its road and of all the tide and overflowed lands in Benton county and exemption from taxation for a term of years, purely disinterested, or is there a systematic effort and an organization which includes the Herald and other papers, to procure for the Oregon Pacific further state aid?

Second, With an open river to Corvallis, and the existing lines of railroad affording means of transportation to the Willamette valley, is it the duty of the state to aid another line of transportation in the valley, while large districts of the state have no facilities for transportation either by river or rail?

Third, In view of the recent showing in the columns of your paper, of the earnings of the Oregon and California railroad company (which I understand includes the roads upon both sides of the river, something over three hundred miles) is there any real cause for complaint against the cost of transportation in the Willamette valley, or are the friends of the Oregon Pacific seeking by the agitation of this question to secure state aid for that road?

I propound these questions without attempting to answer them, believing the article in the Herald discloses the true inwardness of this matter.

I have nothing to say about the merits or demerits of any railroad scheme, but think all should stand upon their own merits, or fall.

THE PERUVIAN AGITATION.

Blaine's Letters of Instruction to Ministers Hurlburt and Kilpatrick.

(SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE OREGONIAN.)

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Additional dispatches to Ministers Hurlburt and Kilpatrick have been furnished for publication by Secretary Blaine. To Hurlburt at Lima, under date of November 22, Secretary Blaine writes:

"I learn with regret that construction has been put on your language and conduct indicating a policy of active intervention on the part of this government beyond the scope of your instructions. As those instructions were clear and explicit, and as this department is in possession of information which would seem to require the withdrawal of confidence in you, I must consider this interpretation of your words and acts as the result of some strange and perhaps prejudiced misconception. My only material for forming this opinion consists of your memorandum to Admiral Lynch, your letter to Senor Garcia, Senor Pierola, and the convention with President Calderon ceding the naval station to the United States. I would have preferred you should hold no communication with Admiral Lynch on questions of diplomatic character. He was present as a military commander of Chilian forces, and you were accredited to Peru. Nor do I conceive how Admiral Lynch as commander of the Chilian army of occupation had any right to ask or receive any formal assurance from you as to the opinions of your government. The United States was represented at Chili by a properly accredited minister, and from his own government the admiral could and ought to have received any information which it was important for him to have. It was to be expected and even desired that frank and friendly relations should exist between you, but I cannot consider such confidential communication as justifying a formal appeal to your colleague in Chili for correction or criticism of your conduct. If there was anything in your proceedings in Peru to which the government of Chili could properly take exception direct representation to this government through the Chilian minister here was due both to the government and to yourself. Having said this, I must add that the language of the memorandum was capable of a not unnatural misconstruction. While you said nothing that may not fairly be considered warranted by your instructions, you omitted to say, with equal emphasis, some things which your instructions supplied and which would perhaps have relieved the sensitive apprehension of the Chilian authorities, for while the United States would unquestionably regard with disfavor the imperious annexation of Peruvian territory as a right of conquest, you were distinctly informed that this government could not refuse to recognize that such annexation might become a necessary condition in the final treaty of peace, and the main purpose of your effort was not expected to be so much a protest against any possible annexation as an attempt, by diplomacy and friendly but unofficial communication with the Chilian authorities, with whom you were daily associated, to induce them to support a policy of giving to Peru, without the imposition of harsh and absolute conditions, the opportunity to show that the rights and interest of Chili could be satisfied without such annexation. The complicated condition of affairs resulting from the action of the Chilian government, the time required for communication between legations in Chili and Peru and this department, and the unfortunate notoriety which the serious differences between yourself and your colleague in Chili have attracted, have, in the opinion of the president, imposed upon him the necessity of a special mission. This mission will be charged with the duty of expressing the views of the president upon the grave condition of affairs which your dispatches describe, and if possible with due consideration of the rights, interests and responsibilities of both nations to promote a settlement which shall restore to the suffering people of Peru the benefits of a well ordered government, deliver both countries from the miseries and burdens of a protracted war, and place their future relations upon a foundation that will prove stable because just and honorable."

Secretary Blaine wrote Minister Kilpatrick at Santiago, Chili, Nov. 22d, disapproving his reply to Senator Balmaseda:

"I should have much preferred that you had furnished him a copy of your instructions instead of submitting a paraphrase which does not fully represent their spirit and meaning. Indeed, I find it difficult to understand how the Chilian government could have been under any misapprehension as to the disposition or purpose of the United States when the instructions both to yourself and Hurlburt had in fact been already frankly communicated. The president has learned with regret of the arrest and removal of President Calderon, but in the present state of his information will not undertake to decide upon its significance. He hopes he will, when facts are better known, be relieved from the painful impression that it was intended as a rebuke to the friendly disposition of the United States.

You will inform the Chilean government that a special envoy will be immediately sent, and you will assure that government he will come in a spirit of impartial friendship, anxious to learn that recent occurrences have not been intended to disturb the long continued and friendly relations existing between us, and instructed by the president to lay before the Chilean government frankly, but with scrupulous consideration for the rights and interests of that government the views which he holds upon the deplorable condition of affairs in South America. The condition is now fast assuming proportions which make its settlement a matter of deep concern to all republics of the continent. The president cannot but anticipate this step, suggested as it is by the most friendly interests and justified by the Chilean government, and we sincerely hope no other action of that government will tend further to complicate the existing difficulties before the arrival of the special envoy."

A London View of the Monroe Doctrine.

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—A special to the News from Washington says the London Standard says of Blaine's instructions sent to the American minister at Lima: It may be absurd, but it is only carrying the Monroe doctrine to its legitimate conclusion to assume that by and by we shall see representatives deputed from Washington to control the relations of the emperor of Brazil with European powers, and the savages of Patagonia invoking the aid of a United States commission to compose their differences. What is the temper of the cabinet at the present moment we can only infer from the sentiment which has confused the settlement of the canal question. As to Peru, it is not wholly, perhaps, a matter of sentiments. It is true Blaine has resigned and Americans will have no longer to admire the glowing periods in which he has maintained the pretensions of his country, but American diplomacy or uniformity will be much the same whether the dispatches are penned by Frelinghuysen or Blaine. It is not improbable that President Arthur may soon announce that peace is restored and a new protectorate by the United States established.

Thinks Blaine's Policy Bad.

Pall Mall Gazette says: The impression created by Blaine's dispatches is undoubtedly bad, and it would have been much worse if the author was still invested with direction of the foreign policy of the United States. We feel no apprehension that the attitude Hurlburt assumed at Lima will be persisted in by the commissioner who will supersede him. The American people have too much to do nearer home to set up as adjudicators among South American republics. If any European powers were to intervene circumstances would be altered.

Blaine's Correspondence Wanted.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Senator Edmunds submitted a resolution requiring the president, if in his opinion not incompatible with public interests, to communicate to the senate all correspondence between the government of the United States and its diplomatic agents in Peru and Chili, respectively, occurring since April 1, 1879, touching public affairs in or between these states, and also such correspondence on the subject as may be in the possession of the department; agreed to without dissent.

A Dig at Blaine.

The introduction of a resolution to-day in the senate calling for copies of the correspondence between the state department and the ministers to Peru and Chili in relation to the affairs of those governments is said to be a strike at Blaine from a stalwart quarter. It is claimed that Blaine has only given such outsides of this correspondence as tends to relieve the state department of responsibility for any misunderstanding, but that the entire correspondence will show at best that the advices of the United States were against the course adopted by Blaine and that the state department is to blame for the trouble.

Discussion of the Clayton-Bulwer Treaty.

The World's London special says: The United States minister here has received an elaborate dispatch from the United States secretary of state, citing strong historical evidence to show that the Clayton-Bulwer treaty was regarded both in England and in the United States from the time of its signature as a failure to adjust the relative claims of the two powers to a controlling influence in the waters of the new world and insisting upon its abrogation as essential to a future good understanding between them. This dispatch was received at the legation here during the absence of Lowell on the continent, and as Lowell was authorized to read it to the British foreign office, Hoppin, acting as charge d'affaires, did not feel disposed to take any action upon it until the return of the minister. It is of the nature of a supplementary dispatch to consider the letter sent out by the secretary of state to American agents in Europe in which the United States distinctly refuse to entertain any proposition looking to join a European and American guarantee of the neutrality of the Panama canal or any other waterway opened between the Atlantic and Pacific oceans. This second dispatch, on its way to England crossed, as I have reason to believe, a dispatch from Earl Granville in reply to Blaine's communication touching the Panama canal, in which the British foreign minister has invited the attention of the U. S. government to the terms of the Clayton-Bulwer treaty of 1850 as binding the United States to assent to a joint protectorate and guarantee any transit of the isthmus. This dispatch of Granville's is now in the hands of Sackville at Washington. It doubtless has been communicated before this time to the state department. Blaine's latter dispatch to Lowell was sent, officially speaking, to be considered as a reply to it, but as it directly traverses the positions taken up by Granville, it will make it necessary for the United States either to maintain the traverse in a new dispatch directly addressed to the British foreign office, or to recede from the position taken by the department of state of the United State in Blaine's circular touching the Panama canal to American agents in Europe.

Land Owners' Meeting.

A meeting was held to-day at Mansion House to organize a committee of land owners, citizens and magnates in support of the Irish property defense association. Among those present were Marquis of Hamilton, Lord Claude Hamilton, Lord Dunsany, and Lord Sadfield; also Sir Henry Tyler and John G. Hubbard, members of parliament. It is understood the resolution was carried appointing a committee to obtain subscriptions in aid of boycotted or other persons unable to gather their crops. Proceedings of the meeting were remarkably harmonious. The political aspect of the Irish question was by mutual consent avoided by advice of English sympathizers with Ireland. O'Donnell attempted to gain admission as a representative of the tenantry, but the lord mayor refused to admit him, not being invited. O'Donnell sent a protest saying the lord mayor was doubtless prudent to prevent the voice of even a single representative of the Irish people being heard.

Citizens of Pendleton subscribed $1000 for a relief fund for the smallpox sufferers at Heppner, but their messenger returned bringing the good news that the scourge was abating and assistance was not needed.

The citizens of Weston have subscribed $1000 with which to build a new house and furnish bedding, clothing and furniture for the King family, who have been suffering with smallpox. The family are all convalescing, and need no further medical attendance. It is the intention of the citizens to burn King's house with its contents as soon as the family are recovered.

The city of Weston closed its fiscal year on the 1st of December with $10 07 in the treasury. During the year $1514 41 were paid out in warrants. There were 23 arrests made during the year, 11 for being drunk and disorderly, 6 for fighting and 6 for minor offenses. The health of the city has been good, schools excellent and the population has been largely increased.

A Heppner correspondent under date of Dec. 4th, says: The town of Heppner is in distress. The flag hangs at half mast, and all appear sad and gloomy. Every business house is closed and the town looks deserted. There are two very severe cases of smallpox, that of George Kessinger and a child of George Swaggart. All other cases are doing well. It has been very hard work to get help to wait on the sick.

The new Presbyterian church at Jacksonville was dedicated on the 4th inst. A subscription amounting to $55 was taken up.

C T Payne, of Jackson county, lately purchased 50 head of cattle from John O'Brien, of Applegate, paying about 2500 for them.

Heavy rains have fallen in Josephine county during the past week, which raised the streams to a great height. They have since receded.

J. M. Kendrick, while mining near his place on Jackson creek the other day, found a five-dollar piece dated 1848. The coin looked like it had seen but little use, and how it got there is a mystery.

The firm of Bybee & Caldwell, engaged in the stock business at Tule Lake, Lake county, has been dissolved. The property was equally divided and each of them has a ranch in the immediate vicinity.

Dean & Co's. mill at Marshfield saws 40,000 feet of lumber per day; Lobree's mill, 20,000 per day; H. H. Luse's mill, at Empire, 30,000 per day; North Bend mill, Simpson & Co., 35,000 per day.

A resident of Linkville while intoxicated recently sought to kill several members of his family and himself. His wife, crazed with grief, afterward attempted to commit suicide by jumping from the bridge into the river, but was caught in time by a bystander.

The blackleg, or mountain fever, has made its appearance among the cattle of Chewaucan. A few have died, and others are seriously afflicted with it. The disease is said to be abating in Warner and Harney valleys, but it is reported to be destroying a great many bovines in parts of western Nevada.

Simpson Bros., by J. Kruse, are putting up a vessel at North Bend; length 123, width 36, and depth of hold 8½ feet, two-masted schooner, and one at Dean & Co's. mill, Marshfield, of larger size, by Capt. Reed, for a San Francisco company, nearly completed. Another company propose a new vessel at Lobree's mill, making six vessels, mostly this year.

Aleck Berry, youngest son of A. M. Berry of Jacksonville, accidentally shot himself, with fatal results, while out hunting with a companion on the 4th inst. He was in the act of crossing Bear creek, in a field below the Manzanita bridge, by means of a foot log, when the sad affair occurred. The log was the trunk of a small tree, with some limbs still on it, and the boy was astride of it and going across in that style. His companion, who stood on the bank with both of their guns, handed one of them to his companion, and he unfortunately proceeded to pull it toward him by the muzzle. The butt and top of the gun being the heaviest and the lad not sufficiently strong to handle it, it naturally enough fell on the log with the hammers down, one of which, in drawing the weapon to him caught on a limb, and, coming down caused the barrel to go off. The gun was heavily loaded with buck shot and the whole charge struck him just above and to the right of the stomach. Death was almost instantaneous.

The public schools in Dayton will reopen early in January unless new cases of smallpox are developed before that time. The disease is believed to be thoroughly stamped out

The report of the sheep commissioner for Klickitat county shows that the sheep-raisers have kept their flocks in good condition and more nearly free from scab than in past years.

During the month of November there were issued at the postoffice in Walla Walla 601 money orders, calling for $8,351 70. During the same time 203 orders, amounting to $6081 13, were paid.

A new town, to be called Belmont, has been laid out six miles above Pomeroy, on the Pataha. The proprietors want the county seat located there and will make a fight at the election in January with that object in view.

Articles of incorporation of the Oriental Ditch Co. of Kittitas valley, have been filed at the auditor's office, Yakima City. Capital stock $600, divided into shares of $25 each. The names of its incorporators are T. D. Quinn, A. Welty and David Ford.

J. A. Marriott recently from the mining regions of Mexico, and now locating on the Little Spokane, shows specimens of copper ore, taken from a locality about 5½ miles north of the bridge crossing the Little Spokane. Mr. Marriott is a practical miner, and is confident that many paying claims will be located and opened up in that region next spring. The specimens indicate about 65 per cent. copper, but is even more valuable as an indication of a galena ledge.

G. T. Ohse, logging for the Port Madison mill, is about to put steam on his road. His camp is a floating one, on Olalla creek, eighteen miles from Seattle. The timber he is particularly anxious to reach is a body of about 9,000,000 feet of long stuff, nearly two miles back. His road is of the pole character, a mile and a half long. Its further end will be connected with ordinary skid roads reaching into the timber to be cut, and over which eight yoke of oxen will haul the logs. The engine, now making at Port Madison, will make not less than six trips a day, carrying each time on its accompanying car about 5000 feet of timber. Twenty men will be worked, and 30,000 feet a day will be cut and hauled. The engine will be at work on the road in February.

The ground on which to build a big flour mill at Prescott, twenty miles from Walla Walla, and the right of way for a ditch to carry water to run the mill have been secured by H. P. Isaacs, who will erect a large flour mill in time for grinding a part of the next crop. The new mill will be driven by a large volume of water taken from the Touchet river, falling eighteen feet. Mr. Libby, a miller and millwright of much experience, will leave Walla Walla in a few days to examine the most approved mills at Minneapolis and elsewhere, before ordering the machinery for the new mill. It is Mr. Isaacs' intention to have this mill complete in all its parts. The mill will be located in the midst of a fine wheat-growing region, and within three hundred yards of the railroad station at Prescott. A side-track will be built from the mill to the main line.

NEW YORK FREIGHTS AND MARKETS.

NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—The freight market continues fairly active, but there are signs of decreasing shipments as the movement has evidently reached a crisis, and by the close of the month there will be signs of dullness. Thomas sailed with a cargo comprising in part 400 cases canned goods, 320 bbls resin, 150 bbls whisky, 309 tons coal, 400 pigs lead, 578 bags pulp, 800 tons railroad iron, etc. The St. John is well advanced and expects to get away by the 17th. The ship Theobald has sailed from Philadelphia; no vessel is yet announced to follow her.

ALL CHRONIC & DIFFICULT DISEASES.

DR. BRENAN WILL GUARANTEE TO CURE any form of Disease of the generative organs or private disease. He has become an expert in the treatment of disease, weakness and derangement of the reproductive organs of both male and female, including diseases caused by the

FOLLIES OF YOUTH,

Such as SPERMATORRHŒA, or SEMINAL WEAKNESS, or LOSS OF PERFECT VITALITY. Nearly two-thirds of all the Chronic Diseases spring, either directly or indirectly, from some derangement of the sexual system, and yet this subject is neglected by the majority of the Medical Profession.

I know that persons who are unfortunate enough to be afflicted by any form of sexual disease have a delicacy in calling upon the proper physician in time, from a sense of modesty and sometimes from ignorance, and permit those diseases to exist until their constitutions become corrupted, their organizations broken down and the hope of future happiness blighted, until death becomes a welcome messenger to carry them out of their miserable existence.

Everything strictly confidential under all circumstances.

Lost manhood perfectly restored. Catarrh, Bronchitis, Throat Diseases, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Kidney Complaint, and all Diseases of the Eye and Ear, Stomach and Bladder, he can cure without fail.
